

4 Children Die Of Burns When
Can Of Kerosene In Mother's Hands Explodes Tuesday Night

Explosion of a can of kerosene in the home of Charles Springer, near Emmitsburg, Tuesday evening, has resulted in the death of four of the Springer children.

Maryland State Policeman Kenneth Bond said the catastrophe occurred when Mrs. Springer poured kerosene over some wet wood in the kitchen stove and the kerosene can exploded. Flaming kerosene was thrown over the children, and the four ran out of the house.

Alice Springer, aged six, died at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday night at the Warner hospital; Donald, aged nine, died at the hospital at 3:57 o'clock this morning and John, aged seven, died at 6:48 o'clock this morning. Gary, aged three, died at 1:50 o'clock this afternoon.

9 Children In Kitchen
According to Trooper Bond nine children were in the kitchen with their mother when the explosion occurred. In addition to the four who were burned the others were: Mary Ellen, 18; Raymond, 14; Charlotte, 11; Virginia, 10; William, five.

The mother Mrs. Martha Virginia Springer, was making a fire in the kitchen stove in anticipation of the return of the father, Charles Springer, Sr., from work at Magnus Metal, in Waynesboro.

Finding the wood wet, and believing that all coals in the stove were out, she poured some kerosene from a half-filled two gallon can into the wood. The kerosene ignited and the explosion hurled the can from Mrs. Springer's hands and scattered flaming kerosene on the four smaller children.

Extinguishing Flames
The kerosene also set fire to curtains in the kitchen and to clothing of the children which had been placed near the stove when they returned from school.

Mrs. Springer, her daughter, Mary Ellen, and Charles Knott, Jr., Thurmout R. 2, a lodger at the Springer home who is employed at night, dashed out into the yard after the fleeing, burning children. They beat out the flames and tore the clothes from the children.

Other children helped extinguish the fire inside the house.

The father arrived at the home a few moments after the catastrophe occurred.

A daughter-in-law, Mrs. Charles Springer, Jr., who resides about an eighth of a mile from the home was notified by one of the children and went another eighth of a mile to the home of Martin Stouter to call a doctor and the Emmitsburg Veterans of Foreign Wars ambulance.

Roads Stall Ambulance
Because of the bad condition of the roads near Annandale, in the mountains two miles southwest of Emmitsburg, near Mount Saint Mary's, the ambulance could not get closer than about three-quarters of a mile of the home. The adult members of the family carried the burned children down the icy roads to the ambulance and they were brought to the hospital here.

The mother was treated at the Warner hospital for extensive burns about the arms and hands. Mary Ellen Springer and Charles Knott were also treated for burns about the hands suffered when they beat out the flames.

MRS. MASON IS AIDES' CAPTAIN

Mrs. Francis C. Mason was chosen as captain of the Adams county Red Cross nurses' aide corps at a reorganization meeting Tuesday evening at the Hotel Gettysburg. She will serve out the unexpired term of Mrs. Ira Henderson, Fairfield, who has resigned.

Scharf, chairman of the Red Cross nurses' aide committee, plans were made for a six-hour refresher course for aides to be given at the Warner hospital the evenings of February 27 and 28 and March 1 by Miss Lois R. Benson, director of nursing at the hospital. Completion of the refresher course is a requirement for assignment to active duty.

The corps is making plans for a course of instruction for new members of the corps. A number of applications for such training already are on file and the class likely will be set up as soon as an instructor can be secured. Mrs. Scharf said.

The Red Cross blood bank program is expected to be resumed within the next few months and may be the first duty for the reactivated nurses' aides.

Miss Marie Kump is secretary of the corps and Mrs. G. Marion Stambaugh is treasurer. Former nurses' aides interested in serving should notify Mrs. Scharf or one of the officers of the organization.

Y RECOGNITION
SERVICE HELD
TUESDAY NIGHT

"When we think of membership, we think of a number of things," Miss Caryll stated. "The first phase of the YWCA policy, I believe, is founded on the second commandment 'Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.' The second phase is that of group neighborliness."

The speaker said the YW, which is 100 years old and active in 65 foreign countries and the United States, has demonstrated that "followers are as important as leaders, one being useless without the other."

CARRIAGE TRADE
THRIVED HERE
CENTURY AGO

At the February meeting of the Adams County Historical society on Tuesday evening, Dr. Henry Stewart advanced the society's efforts to compile as complete a record as possible of the carriage making industry which thrived in Gettysburg a century ago.

Dr. Stewart reviewed the information he had found and called upon local residents with information on the industry, that did not completely disappear here until about 1917, to make a written account of their information available to the society. Before the meeting adjourned two persons in the audience had volunteered new facts on the latter years of carriage making here.

"It is generally, though very vaguely, known," Dr. Stewart said, "that the carriage industry was probably Gettysburg's most distinctive one—reaching its height at the outbreak of the Civil War, which was its 'Waterloo,' for its main market outlet was in the South."

"My mother more than once described to me the long lines of vehicles—carry-alls, (two-seaters), buggies and phaetons drawn by a single horse or team—which every spring started for the Southland as soon as the condition of the roads permitted."

Dr. Stewart quoted J. Howard Wert, an earlier local historian, as saying the industry was located chiefly on East Middle street. Dr. Stewart told of the carriage shop of William and Harry Troxell in the second block of East Middle street which he said was possibly the last survivor of the carriage industry here.

A number of trades were involved in the carriage industry, the speaker said, and expressed the opinion that not all of the shops were self-contained. "The cabinet maker, blacksmith, painter and upholsterer all were found in the Troxell establishment but this was not always the case. I think a number of specialized shops contributed their output on a quasi-assembly line plan. I remember one such shop conducted by

Here And There
News Collected At Random

One of the three deer which found food and shelter last Friday at the George Myers farm, near Arendtsville, died Tuesday night. Pneumonia and leg injuries caused by falls on ice were given as the cause of death.

Last Friday morning a doe and a fawn were found near the barn on the Myers' farm. Both were suffering from lack of food. They were taken into the barn and fed. In the afternoon another doe found its way to the Myers' shelter. One of the animals had difficulty walking and the game protector in that area said he believed it had been injured in falls on the ice.

The Myers were given permission to feed and shelter the deer until weather conditions improved and they would be able to find food in the woods.

Last evening the injured doe died.

ROGER MYERS IS NAMED TO DEFENSE POST

Roger Myers, Fairfield, was announced as chief of communications for the Adams County Civil Defense organization by Judge W. C. Sheely this morning.

Judge Sheely, as coordinator of civil defense for the county, and Gettysburg Burgess William G. Weaver, deputy coordinator, met with Myers at Fairfield Tuesday evening to discuss arrangements for the communication system which will carry the warning of air raids to every community in the county.

Lawrence M. Sheads and Kenneth Hull, who served as communications heads in the county during World War II, will assist Myers in setting up the county-wide system.

The system will work through the various fire companies for audible warnings of the approaching raids, but members of the communications system will not be firemen, it was said.

Big Job for Firemen

The reason given for setting up the system outside of the fire companies was that the firemen are expected to have the major job to do in connection with any raid in fighting fires, giving first aid, and the like. The members of the communications system will have to remain at their posts to give warnings and information.

For the time being the fire sirens in the various county communities will probably be used to give warning under the Civil Defense set-up. In some instances church bells or other means may be used, giving the population warning if any raid ever comes.

Judge Sheely added that there will be no public participation in the state-wide civil defense organization test this week-end, with the exception of the seven air observation posts in the county.

The air observation posts at Gettysburg, Littlestown, Cashtown, Biglerville, Fairfield, York Springs and Hampton will be manned for the test.

80 DEAD AND 500 HURT AS JAMMED PENNSY TRAIN CRASHES

Woodbridge, N. J., Feb. 7 (AP)—A commuter-crowded Pennsylvania Railroad train careened wildly atop a temporary overpass last night, jumped the track and plummeted 20 feet down a steep embankment. Fifty persons were killed and about 500 injured.

Workers moved tirelessly through the wreckage well past dawn today and authorities said possibly six to 10 more bodies may be found in the crumpled mass of steel and debris.

It was the third big wreck in the metropolitan New York area in less than a year. The three accidents took a total of nearly 200 lives.

Worst In 8 Years
The rush-hour crackup was the worst in the nation since 1943 when a like number of persons perished in a Pennsylvania railroad wreck outside Philadelphia.

If the death toll mounts, it will be the most disastrous since 1918 when 115 died in Nashville, Tenn.

The 11-car train, "The Broker," bounced off the tracks with a roar and tumbled down into a twisted mass of deadly wreckage.

It was loaded to the aisles with homebound commuters — mostly from New York — on their way to Red Bank, Long Branch, Asbury Park and other communities on New Jersey's wealthy north shore.

Blames New Trestle
Engineer Joseph H. Fitzsimmons, a veteran of 33 accident-free years on the road, blamed the overcrowded coaches and the new trestle for the tragedy.

Alive but injured, the 57-year-old Fitzsimmons said from a hospital cot: "The moment my engine passed over the trestle and lurched sharply I felt the rest of the cars would never make it. I hit the trestle at about 25 miles per hour and the speed of the train certainly couldn't be blamed for the crash. When I started to sway, I applied the brakes, but it apparently was too late."

Passengers and at least one railroad detective—who did not give his name—disagreed with the engineer on the speed of the train. The detective said it was going at top speed when it hit the trestle.

Statements Clash
The Pennsylvania, in a statement, said a 25 mile an hour speed limit was in effect on the new track, opened to traffic less than five hours before "The Broker" cracked up at 5:43 p.m. (EST).

The new track was swung about 50 feet from the old one to clear the way for the Jersey turnpike, big cross-state highway now under construction.

The Pennsylvania said six trains passed over the new trestle safely before "The Broker."

The railroad said the trestle itself was not a factor in the accident—despite the engineer's statement.

Orders Investigation
Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll expressed shock at the tragedy and ordered an investigation to pin down the cause. The New Jersey Public Utilities commission at once launched a probe as did the railroad.

The train pulled out of Jersey City at 5:10 p.m. (EST). Commuters from New York board it there after coming under the Hudson river by tube train.

It was more crowded than usual because another commuter line, the Jersey Central, was knocked out by the switchmen's "sick call" strike. Many Central commuters elbowed in with the estimated 900 passengers who daily ride "The Broker."

The big engine left the tracks and plunged in an arc to the pavement of a street below, in this city of 27,000 persons 30 miles south of New York.

Passengers Tossed About
Behind it, the first five cars of the train went this way and that in a jumble of jagged steel. Some of them turned over in the thick mud of the embankment. Others stayed upright, grotesquely twisted across the rails or along the embankment.

Passengers were tossed about inside the coaches like dice in a cup. Many were mangled to bits under the grinding weight of sharp, broken metal.

Others survived or died in tomb-like crevasses of steel, as some of the cars were bent into a U-shape by the terrible force of the crash. It took about seven hours—until after midnight—to dig and saw the last one clear.

Rush Blood Plasma
The moans of trapped men and women rose on the night air. One man pinned under a heavy coach wheel begged feebly: "Help, help me."

Ambulances hurried to the scene from all over north Jersey. Blood plasma was sent from New York and Jersey City.

A morgue was set up in a garage. Blood-spattered rescue workers tenderly placed the dead in long rows, then pulled brown sheets of paper over their still forms. The feet of the dead sprawled limp and lifeless, uncovered by the paper shrouds.

There was panic in some of the coaches, calm heroism in others.

CARRIAGE TRADE

Audience Adds Facts

"After the Civil war the industry continued on a much reduced basis for some time to meet local needs. Around the turn of the century, there was a development, due to tourist travel over the battlefield, of a surrey type of vehicle which had become very popular, a two seater with a rigid top. This grew to at least six, possibly more, seats of extra width and often drawn by four horses. It was introduced by Ziegler and Holtzworth, the leading livery men of that time. I have never seen a similar type of vehicle elsewhere and have always thought it was built in Adams county."

Fred G. Troxell, who was in the audience, said after Dr. Stewart's paper that his father and grandfather were in the carriage business. His father was Jacob Troxell and had his shop on East Middle street. William Troxell, last in the carriage business here, continued until about 1916 or 1917. Harry Cunningham, also in the audience, said he had worked at the carriage trade first for a Mr. Spalding and then was in business for himself until 1913.

Receive Battle Relics

Dr. Stewart also read a story from his mother's scrapbook about McAllister's mill when it was the first station above the Mason and Dixon line in the slave escape route to Canada.

Treasurer Harry T. Stauffer reported 63 members in the society for 1951, including a number of new members and a memorial membership for Mrs. C. E. Bilheimer, a former director of the society.

Dr. Robert Fortenbaugh, as library and museum committee chairman, announced a number of acquisitions including a number of battlefield relics given by Ralph Blocher. It included bullets, a section of a tree containing a bullet, a rifled Whitworth cannon shell, canteen, bayonet and case and other items.

The program was arranged by Dr. Frederick Tibberg, program chairman. President Hugh C. McIlhenny presided with about 30 persons present.

GHS Tops Greyhounds 46-44 In Sudden-Death Overtime

Jim Skinner's field goal as the second and sudden-death overtime period got underway gave the Gettysburg high cagers a 46-44 victory over Shippensburg in a South Penn league game at Shippensburg Tuesday evening.

For three periods of the game the Warriors played perhaps their best game of the year as they led by a comfortable margin. At half time the score was 27-20 and going into the final period the Forney-men were on top 35-26.

With but five minutes remaining Gettysburg led by 11 points. However, Shippensburg's alert and aggressive team refused to be counted out. The Warriors became rattled as their lead started to melt in the closing minutes. Three time-outs were taken but all to no avail as the Greyhounds made steals which resulted in tallies.

Just seven seconds remained when Hunter fired a long desperation shot which landed to tie the score for Shippensburg at 42-42.

Thrilling Finish
In the first overtime period Koonitz tallied for Shippensburg 15 seconds after the period started. Dick Harriel landed a set shot shortly before the round ended to again tie the count at 44-44.

Skinner replaced Carl Saunders in the locals' lineup at the start of the sudden death period. On the tap-off Harriel secured possession and fired a pass to Skinner who went under for a layup to clinch the game for the Warriors.

The Warriors were without the services of Dave Swope, guard, who is nursing a leg injury. Cecil McCormick paced the Gettysburg offense with 14 points.

As a result of the victory the Warriors are currently tied with Chambersburg for the lead in the second half race. On Friday Gettysburg entertains Waynesboro here.

Rickey's Formula Brings Squawks

Pittsburgh, Feb. 7 (AP)—Branch Rickey's new payroll formula for his Pittsburgh Pirates has some of the players saying—at least for the moment—"thanks, but no, thanks."

Unsatisfactory contract offers have provoked howls from at least 10 Bucs who think the club is able to pay more money. But the future hasn't budged General Manager Rickey. The boys may be squawking now but Rickey expects no holdouts.

"I have not had a holdout in many years," he said "but I have not had a last place club in a great many years—32 to be exact. It is my job as I see it to have something to do with a pennant-winning club in Pittsburgh, and as soon as possible."

And this is Rickey's pay formula: "All good players will be paid generously and all other players will be paid fairly." Rickey believes players should get juicy incomes only for producing a winning team—not because the club happens to be in good financial condition—which the Pittsburgh club is.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

FIRSTS

All through this life of ours are scattered our firsts—those notable experiences that go to make up the character and personality that is ours. The first manifestation of our affection, which of course goes to our parents. Our first thrills of childhood. Our first day at school. Our first love of the opposite sex.

Then there is the first earning of our dollar, the first consciousness that we are something unique in the world, with a mind of our own, and with the knowledge that we have a right to express that mind as we will. I recall the first time I drove a nail into a board with a smiling carpenter at my side. He told me to keep my eye on the head of the nail and hit it squarely with the hammer. I learned something about co-ordination by that act. This came well to my rescue when later I took up golf!

I was very young when I finished reading my first book—Louis Alcott's "Old Fashioned Girl." It was a long time before I read another book for I felt sure that no other would ever approach this first in interest. But later thousands of them did!

With what pleasure we recall our first visits to notable places about which we have heard or read, and our first reactions upon meeting a famous person. I recall a happy evening spent at the home of the late Col. W. R. Nelson, the great founder of the Kansas City Star, then as now one of the great newspapers of the country. He took me into his den and showed me a copy of the famed first edition of his paper—a small four page tabloid size—and with what pride he showed it. Then he remarked: "I began it with a paste-pot and a pair of shears!" After his death this newspaper was sold back to his employees for in excess of $10,000,000!

The first "Believe it or Not" cartoon, by the late Bob Ripley, was an after thought. He was a sporting cartoonist who ran out of ideas one day and substituted a drawing that would intrigue his readers. It did—and later graduated into his life work. We never quite know just how our first will turn out. They have revolutionized many a life. How important they are!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Two Barbers."

Now, the season known as Lent, Time for prayer and fasting meant.

Forty days and forty nights To give up the vain delights.

And since sorrow all must share, For its agony prepare.

With eternal life its goal, Seek for Heaven to fit the soul.

Harrisburg, Feb. 7 (P)—A move to break the state's monopoly on the sale of bottled liquor got underway in the House today.

Rep. Gus Wachhaus (R-Schuylkill) introduced a bill which would permit taprooms to sell liquor for consumption off the premises. Bottled liquor now may be bought only at state stores.

Each sales would be limited to a maximum of one quart. Such sales would be restricted to a legal mark-up in price of not more than 15 per cent over the liquor store price.

Get things set before the guests arrive. Get out flower vases, canape trays, glasses, etc., so you do not have to rush around performing these chores while the guests are present.

The topic, "Christ Calls—In Faith We Serve," part two of the two-part subject, "Christian Endeavor—Youth Week," was discussed by the leader. The meeting closed with the group repeating the Christian Endeavor pledge and benediction. Following the meeting the group attended the preaching mission service at St. Paul's. The leader next Sunday evening will be Frances Miller and the topic to be discussed is "The Golden Rule and Other Races."

E. S. Myers of Hanover told the company what he had to offer in carnival concessions. Pres. Crouse appointed a general committee for the annual carnival which will be held next August. Those serving on the committee are Ernest Baumgardner, Lloyd Bowers and Harry Hess.
The secretary's report was given by Edgar A. Wolfe, followed with the treasurer's report by Luther Hess. The company decided to go along with the other fire companies of the county with the newly-organized fire chiefs' organization. William Ecker, fire chief, reported that the company truck had pumped out 15,000 gallons of water from a tank in Bruceville and that the engine had worked satisfactorily. The company decided to have application cards printed.
The following new members were received at the meeting: Kenneth Miller, Donald Bowers, John W. LeGore, Warren Stair, George Stone-sifer, Chester Hahn, Lawrence Dennis and Francis Ulrich. Refreshments were served to the group by the committee composed of Cletus Bair and William Lippy, at the close of the meeting. The next meeting will be held Monday, March 5, at 7:30 p.m. at the engine house.
"What To Preach?—The Name Above All Other Names, Jesus Christ," was the theme of the sermon delivered by the Rev. Dr. Clyde W. Meadows, pastor of the King Street United Brethren church, Chambersburg, at the preaching mission service held at St. Paul's Lutheran church on Tuesday evening.

The devotions were in charge of the Rev. Harvey B. Simons, pastor of Centenary Methodist church. A flute quartet, composed of Elizabeth Ann Crouse, Ellen Hartlaub, Nancy Renner and Barbara Waltman from the Littlestown Junior-senior high school played "The Crusade" by Gilan and "Dedication" by Franz. The service was well attended and Alpha Fire company No. 1 was represented by a group of its members.
The services this evening will be in charge of the Rev. Kenneth D. James, pastor of St. John's Lutheran church. The message of the evening will be delivered by the Rev. Dr. Meadows. Special music will be furnished by the choir of St. John's church, with Mrs. Jay D. Basehoar, church organist accompanying. This will be the fourth of the preaching mission services and will again be held at St. Paul's at 7:30 p.m.

And Mrs. Emory Sterner
serve Golden Anniversary

MR. AND MRS. EMORY G. STERNER

Mrs. Emory G. Sterner celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary January 20 at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mrs. Ira Fohl, Aspers, R. 1. They have resided for a few years.

Mr. Sterner, who will be 81 in March, was born in Pennsylvania and is in excellent health. He married January 20, 1891, Mrs. John Fowle, in Morristown, Md., by the Rev. J. H. Fowle.

During the early years of their life they resided on a farm near Gettysburg, where Mr. Sterner was superintendent of the Harney Lutheran church. In 1915 they moved to near Gettysburg, where they resided until 1915 when they moved to the home and Mrs. Fohl.

They are the parents of eight children: Maurice Sterner, Bigler, D.; Mrs. Samuel Dayhoff, R. 5; L. Guy Sterner, R. 5; L. Guy Sterner, R. 5; L. Guy Sterner, R. 5; L. Guy Sterner, R. 5; L. Guy Sterner, R. 5; L. Guy Sterner, R. 5. They have 30 living grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren. One son, Hobart Sterner, was killed in World War II.

The children, with the exception of Willis Sterner, were present for the 60th wedding anniversary celebration.

TOWER FALLS, FIVE DIE

New Delhi, India, Feb. 7 (AP) — The top of a 70-year-old clock tower split in half here today, fell with a crash into a teeming bazaar street, and killed four men and one woman. Eleven others were injured. The clock, which remained intact, stopped when the upper part of the tower fell — at 10:15 a.m. Authorities were unable to immediately explain the cause.

Harrisburg, Feb. 7 (AP) — Sen. Fred P. Hare, Jr., (R-Somerset) introduced a bill in the Senate on Monday to change the name of the Pennsylvania Soldiers' Orphan School at Scotland, Franklin county, to the Scotland School for Veterans' children.

Tower City, Pa., Feb. 7 (AP) — A fall down the chute of the Porter tunnel of the Philadelphia and Reading Iron and Coal Co., on Monday killed Guy F. Kessler, 32, acting fire boss.

You should have some closet space to hang your guests' coats. If you aren't there to greet them and take their coats, they'll probably have no alternative but to leave them across the chair.

J. B. EDWARDS IS DEAD AT 107;
SURVIVORS HERE

J. B. Edwards, an uncle of a number of upper countians, recently died in Abilene, Kansas, at the age of 107.

A native of New York city, he had married Miss Jenny Lady, of near Arendtsville, who was a sister of the late Mrs. Jacob F. Deardorff, of McKnightstown, an aunt of the late Hiram Lady, of Arendtsville, and the aunt of Milton and Willis Lady, of Biglerville. She preceded her husband in death about 12 years ago.

Mr. Edwards had resided in Abilene for more than 80 years, having gone there before the days of the great cattle boom in the late 1870's.

He was a personal acquaintance of Wild Bill Hickok and also knew Joe McCoy, the Springfield, Ill., cattle dealer who founded the Abilene cattle trade in 1867 when cattle were driven from Texas (The Indian Territory) to Abilene.

Serving as an employee of the Kansas State legislature for 40 years, Mr. Edwards was author of many articles on the history of Abilene and the west.

Miss Blanche Edwards, a surviving daughter, wrote to relations in this section of her father's death and noted that she was interested in General Eisenhower's purchase of a farm near here. She wrote "We knew the general's parents. They were fine people. The boys are younger than I and were not in school when I was. They lived in

Allis-Chalmers Model B Tractor

This kind of streamlining does it:

1. Lowest cost, full-size orchard tractor. Simple to run. Low maintenance.
2. All basic, money-making essentials are standard equipment—starter, lights, battery, radiator shutter and thermostat. No expensive "frills."
3. Low-cost 3-in-1 Power Transmitter — Belt Pulley, Power Take-Off, Hydraulic Lift.
4. Complete line of matched implements — mounted and trail-type.

Here's the kind of orchard power that makes money (instead of "takes money") year after year. Let us show you what the Model B can do.

County's Champ Cherry Pie Baker Gives Her Recipes

It takes a goodly proportion of butter, and even a little almond extract, to bake a championship cherry pie.

At least those ingredients were among the materials making up the pie that won Dorothy Hartzell, 17-year-old Biglerville high school junior, the cherry pie baking championship of Adams county.

The tall Biglerville high student listed the materials used in making her pie in a brief address to the judges at the pie baking contest held Monday in Gettysburg.

For the pie crust she used 2½ cups of sifted all-purpose flour, ¾ teaspoon of salt, ¼ cup of shortening and approximately five tablespoons of ice water.

Prize-winning Methods. She sifted the flour and added the salt and shortening, and then mixed with pastry blender until the fat was the size of peas. She added more water gradually until the mixture formed a ball and then chilled the mixture for 2½ minutes. She then rolled out the crust on a floured board until it was ¼ of an inch thick. She then put the crust into the pan, added the filling, moistened the edge of the crust with water, and applied the top crust, which had been cut to allow the steam to escape. She pressed the edge together firmly, brushed the top crust lightly with milk and baked the pie at 425 degrees for 35 minutes.

The pie's filling included three cups of sour cherries, ¼ cup of sugar, ½ cup of cherry juice, three tablespoons of cornstarch, a teaspoon of red food coloring, a pinch of salt, ¼ teaspoon of almond extract and two tablespoons of butter.

She drained the cherries first, saving one-half cup of the juice and combined all of the remaining ingredients with the exception of the butter and cooked over a medium heat about 2½ minutes until the mixture was clear. She mixed the thickened juice gently with the cherries and placed it in the pastry-lined pan. She then dotted the mixture with butter, being very generous with the estimate of two tablespoons, and then applied the top crust.

Movies Are Her Hobby. The pie came out flaky and crisp and the filling was excellent. It was the ninth cherry pie ever made by the champion, who became interested in the cherry pie championship only this year.

The Biglerville junior has had three years of training in home economics classes, and helps with the cooking at the home of her brother, Harry J. Hartzell, with whom she resides. They live about one-half mile south of Arendtsville on the Arendtsville-Biglerville road.

Miss Hartzell confesses that her favorite hobby has nothing to do with homemaking, or cooking. "It's more fun to go to the movies," she says.

Over a 16 year period, the University of Arizona basketball team has won seven Border Conference championships, twice shared co-championships and finished second three times.

Another Penna. Corn Hybrid Is Released

An early-season hybrid, Penna. 7414 has been released to make 11 Pennsylvania corn hybrids now available to growers. All of these have been developed through research at the Pennsylvania State college to meet the climatic and growing conditions prevalent in this state.

The new release, Penna. 7414, is reasonably cold-resistant, and is primarily intended for use in northern counties where a short growing season requires maturing before frosts. Although slightly later than Penna. 412 previously released, Pa. 7414 is a heavier yielder, has a stronger stalk that prevents lodging, and is more resistant to disease and insects. It also is considered an "easy husker" and has a good root system.

Before being released, Penna. 7414 was tested for three years at various northern locations. It is available this year commercially.

FARM CALENDAR

Grow More Grass.—Pennsylvania farmers are tying their farms to the grassroots. Director J. M. Fry of the agricultural extension service of the Pennsylvania State college, believes that farmers are becoming more and more interested in grassland farming to build up their soil fertility, to produce more and cheaper feed for their livestock, and to control erosion.

Treat Vegetable Seed.—Many serious diseases of vegetables are carried on the seed. Extension plant pathologists of the Pennsylvania State college say the only safe protection from these diseases is to use clean seed or seed which has been treated. Leaflet 132, "How to Grow Disease-Free Vegetable Plants," can be obtained from your county agent.

Brood Early Chicks.—To avoid a labor problem with your poultry flock, plan the chick brooding so there will be little conflict with other farm operations. Extension poultry specialists of the Pennsylvania State college say that means brooding the chicks early.

Be Ready for Pruning.—For pruning operations around the home grounds you will need a few tools. E. G. Price, Penn State extension ornamental horticulturist, suggests these: sharp pocket knife, pruning shears, pruning shears, and small pruning saw.

Drive Safely.—Reduce speed when road surfaces are snowy or icy so that you can stop in time. C. G. Burress, Penn State extension agricultural engineer, reminds that it takes 3 to 12 times as much distance to stop on snow or ice as on dry concrete.

Read the Label.—It pays to read the label of anything you buy, and E. J. Udine, Penn State extension entomologist, says that is especially true of household insecticides. They are poisons.

Keep Hens Laying.—Declining feed consumption often precedes a slump in egg production, says F. H. Leuchner, extension poultry specialist of the Pennsylvania State college. The poultryman who notes this condition can usually prevent the drop in egg laying by feeding wet mash or pellets to the birds which flash the warning signal.

Grow Best Trees.—The Scotch pine is first choice with Pennsylvania Christmas tree growers, according to W. W. Simonds, extension forester of the Pennsylvania State college. It will grow in nearly any kind of soil and cutting can start in 5 to 7 years. Norway spruce is the No. 2 tree. It will grow in moist to medium-dry soil conditions.

Prune Fruit Trees.—Where labor

Test Spacing Of Snap Beans In Row

A new research publication, Progress Report No. 38, reports four years' tests on the influence of various plant spacing on yield of snap beans. This report, from the experiment station of the Pennsylvania State college, is available from county agricultural agents or from the college.

Six varieties of snap beans were used in the extensive tests, planted at 1, 2, 4, and 8-inch-spacing rows three feet apart. The report indicates greatest yields can be expected, regardless of variety, when seed is spaced from 1 to 2½ inches apart in the row. This report also includes a table showing quantities of seed needed at the various spacings per acre.

is a problem, there are choices to be made in pruning fruit trees, C. S. Bittner, fruit extension specialist of the Pennsylvania State college, suggests pruning first those trees expected to blossom and bear heavily the coming season. The trees that bore heavily last year can be left until last.

Start Farm Records.—If the farm account book has not been started, better get it under way now. E. L. Moffitt, Penn State extension farm management specialist, says these records will tell where the farm business is paying and where it is losing money.

Cows Need Hay.—A cow can consume 50 pounds or more of silage daily, but John Wheeler, Penn State extension dairy specialist, says that it is better to make use of good-quality hay with 25 pounds of

Bears Snooze In Deep Moat In Zoo

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 7 (AP).—Two 400-pound bears snoozed peacefully today at the bottom of the 18-foot deep moat into which they skidded from an icy pen 72 hours earlier.

The animals were unimpaired of the efforts by St. Paul city zoo keepers and a host of amateur advisors to rescue them. Fortified with food and a quantity of hay tossed to them in the pit, they appeared ready to resume the hibernation a brief spell of warm weather interrupted Saturday.

Harrisburg, Feb. 7 (AP).—A proposal to strengthen child adoption laws reached the Senate Tuesday.

A bill, sponsored by Sens. Robert D. Fleming (R-Allegheny), R. B. Mahanoy (R-Crawford) and John H. Dent (D-Westmoreland), would require the licensing of all adoption agencies by the State Welfare department. The legislation incorporates recommendations offered by the General Assembly's Joint State Government commission after a two-year study of the problem.

Long-term Investment that pays daily dividends

THESE days thoughtful people turn their minds to the durability of things they purchase. But it's rare when doing your duty turns out to be the best way to satisfy your heart's desire.

That's what's so marvelous about this '51 Buick. If you picked a car just for the lift it gives you—your pride in its power—or its generous comfort—you couldn't make a better choice.

But make note of this:

That gleaming new push-bar forefront, which greets your eye with flashing beauty, contains 25 grille bars made of stamped steel, individually mounted to "give" and come back unharmed. Combined with a massive, wrap-around bumper, fortified by two stalwart "bumper bombs" and two added uprights, it gives unsurpassed protection.

Springs of stout spiraled steel on all four wheels let your wheels curtsy over bumps, while you ride level as a lance. But they also need no servicing, and breakage is virtually unknown.

Buick's great-powered engine is a Fireball, wondrously lively and eager at the mere touch of your toe—but it also wrings extra power from every drop of fuel, and has the mechanical perfection that comes only from years of experience with this basic design.

Dynaflow Drive gives you effortless smoothness of control—but it also eliminates clutch repair bills, saves tires, eases strain on the whole driving mechanism, from engine to differential.

The road-steady gait of a Buick assures relaxed security—and is also evidence that you have a durable, deep-silled, X-braced frame beneath you. However you check it, you'll discover this: The things that make you yearn for a Buick on first acquaintance, are the very same things that make Buick such a smart long-time buy.

Better see your Buick dealer—soon.

No other car provides all this:

- DYNAFLOW DRIVE • FIREBALL POWER
- 4-WHEEL COIL SPRING • DUAL VENTILATION
- PUSH-BAR FOREFRONT • TORQUE-TUBE DRIVE
- WHITE-GLOW INSTRUMENTS • DREAMLINE STYLING
- BODY BY FISHER
